Jon Mundy on Sermon-Writing - Click here to watch--> https://youtu.be/brQ8OTt_TOY

Speaking on a topic he knows very well, after over 50 years of practice, Jon talked about the process of "cooking" a sermon, and how it develops from one stage to the next before its final fruition. Using an article he wrote on the subject back in 1985, Jon talks about some of the different types of sermons one may be called upon to make, on his own history in moving from more traditionally Christian churches to places where he could talk more freely about A Course in Miracles, and about how the guidance of the Course can influence the sermon-writing process as well. There was much discussion with class and faculty during this talk.
