Using the attached PowerPoint as a guide, Rev. Jon discusses the American Transcendentalists: Emerson, Thoreau, and others, and delves into how they thought, believed, wrote, and worked. Also attached is a brief PDF outline that Jon had made on the subject a few years ago and had used as a class handout.

After closing the PowerPoint presentation, Jon opens the floor to discussion and questions. Eventually this evolves into a discussion about the declining population of many churches today, the role of cyber-community as opposed to "brick-and-mortar" churches, and community gatherings, and how economics, COVID-19, Zoom, and differing beliefs among different generations have all impacted on the current shift in the profile of what a congregation is, and the pluses and minuses of online vs. in-person community gatherings and events. Finally, Rabbi Scott coses the class with the Aaronic Benediction in Hebrew and English.
